

AUTHORITIES UNITE TO MAKE STREETS SAFE FROM AUTOS

New York City, Long Island,
Westchester and Jersey
Plan Co-operation.

TEN KILLED YESTERDAY.

Three Die in One Crash, Said to Have Been Result of Speeding.

The authorities of New York City, Long Island, Westchester County and New Jersey are to co-operate in a movement to make the streets and roads safe from ordinary law-abiding motorists by making them unsafe for reckless and drunken automobile drivers.

Commissioner Enright has issued a general order for the prompt arrest of the driver of every car who takes risks of an accident, with particular directions to motor patrols, motorcycle policemen and traffic policemen to let no such offender escape safety.

That their lack of experience is not due to bashfulness is asserted by their fellow students who also point to the fact that the "noble fifteen" are about to be admitted to the bar. However, five got "wood feet" when the camera was pointed at their immaculate lips and they refused to be photographed.

Knowledge of the unsullied lips was obtained from announcements of the class-day and commencement exercises to be held next month by the Brooklyn Law School, the Department of Law of the St. Lawrence University.

The police in nearby counties have been asked by Commissioner Enright to aid in eliminating dangerous drivers by a strict enforcement of local ordinances and by reporting the names of those from this city at Police Headquarters.

The casualties list of automobile accidents yesterday was long. Six persons lost their lives inside the city limits and three may die from their injuries. Three were killed in New Jersey and one in Suffolk County, Long Island.

The worst of the accidents is believed by the police to have been due to speeding with criminal purpose. A touring car driven by Charles Brown, No. 349 East 123d Street, going south on Lexington Avenue at seventy miles an hour, struck the taxicab of Charles Rosenberg of No. 133 East 13th Street.

Brown was instantly killed. Adam Laria of No. 238 East 123d Street, owner of the car, and John Keller of No. 2097 Third Avenue, a passer-by who was hit by the taxicab when it was hurled to the sidewalk by the collision, were also killed.

George Callan of No. 2009 Lexington Avenue, riding with Laria, and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Laughlin of No. 348 Powers Avenue, the Bronx, who were on the sidewalk, were hit under arrest. He said Laria and Brown had been drinking heavily, according to the police, and that "they were just joy riding."

The car ran by Policeman Rosenthal of the East 126th Street Station a few moments before the collision.

Rose Black, four years old, of No. 222 Powell Avenue, Brooklyn, was struck in the street in front of her home by a car driven by Mrs. Jennie Bronowitz of No. 1742 Union Street. The little girl's skull was crushed and she died in a few minutes.

Mary Marriocci, nine years old, of No. 15 Fairview Avenue, was killed on Richmond Avenue, Port Richmond, by a car driven by Joseph Isaacs, manufacturer of dental supplies, No. 435 Westminister Avenue.

Elizabeth N. J. He was arrested and held in $5,000 bail by Magistrate Crook.

Harman M. Hoffman of No. 82 Payne Street, Irvington, N. J., fell under the wheels of a truck owned by himself in trying to get aboard after it had started and was crushed to death.

Harold Runz, five years old of No. 79 Third Avenue, Paterson, N. J., was killed when a motorcycle on which he was riding with his parents ran into an automobile at high speed.

Mounted Policeman Patrick Kavanaugh attempted to jump on the running board of an automobile at Surf Avenue and Eighth Street, Coney Island, and fell. His head hit the curb and he was instantly killed.

Henry Forbes, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Forbes, Islip, L. I., was killed by the automobile of Henry Utsch of Glendale, L. I.

Charles Valentine of Bayshore was badly hurt when his automobile was struck by the car of Mr. Utsch when he tried to avoid hitting the little boy. Mr. Utsch was exonerated by witnesses.

Frank Bauer, eight years old, of No. 914 Adams Street, West New York, N. J., playing in front of his home, was so badly injured by a motorcycle, driven by Fred Guttenhust, of No. 829 17th Street, West New York, that he died two hours later in North Hudson Hospital.

The skull of John Glimmer of No. 527 East 18th Street, was fractured when his car hit an elevated railroad pillar in First Avenue, near Fifth Street, yesterday afternoon. He is reported dying at Bellevue Hospital.

"Noble Fifteen" of Brooklyn Law School Are Unkissed Heroes of Graduating Class

Five of Future Ornaments of the Bar, Their Lips Unsullied (They Admit It), Balked Before the Camera

Over in Brooklyn there are fifteen young men who have gone through college (and a co-educational college, at that) without ever having been kissed. They admit it, and are proud of it.

That their lack of experience is not due to bashfulness is asserted by their fellow students who also point to the fact that the "noble fifteen" are about to be admitted to the bar. However, five got "wood feet" when the camera was pointed at their immaculate lips and they refused to be photographed.

Knowledge of the unsullied lips was obtained from announcements of the class-day and commencement exercises to be held next month by the Brooklyn Law School, the Department of Law of the St. Lawrence University.

The fifteen young men who go forth into the world with their enviable (?) record June 8th are:

Daniel K. Miller, voted the handsomest man in the day session; Ralph S. Sternfeld, Robert Daru, Samuel S. Ehrlich, Emil K. Ellis, secretary to the Student Council; Daniel J. Kahn, Milton M. Gettinger, Dominic Chiariello, Robert S. Fleckless, Peter F. Gulotta, Frank E. Lammers, James G. Scieleppe, Maurice Lippman, H. Spurel and L. Hergeshiemer.

The marvelous quality of the achievement of these men is apparent when it is recalled that there are 140 graduates this year, and of this number one-fifth are women. Incidentally, of all the pretty girl seniors, Jean Steindler was voted by the night session the prettiest, and Minnie R. Schwartz by the day session. To offset the fifteen unkissed, Edward Vogel was elected by the night session the handsomest man in the class.

Both evening and day sessions (Mortimer Schiff is class President of the former and Ben Mahler of the latter) unanimously inducted the new members, a majority of those voting declared they did so because they favored "sensible apparel."

The women in the class, according to Mr. Ellis, maintained a superiority this year in every branch of student endeavor except athletics. They were leaders in social, fraternal, legal and literary activities, and in class, as well as in legal practice, held their own against the men.

An unusual feature of the graduating class this year is that among those to receive degrees are two poets, a song writer, a patent attorney, a salesman, a metallurgical chemist, a fingerprint expert, several certified public accountants, teachers, doctors, a farmer, a reporter and a B. R. T. conductor. Some of the more prominent members of the class are: Samuel U. Klein, First Deputy Commissioner of Accounts; Charles Solomon, former Socialist Assemblyman and labor leader; James Smith, principal of a public school, and Henry V. Simpson, a Negro preacher.

In addition to the 140 who will receive the degree of Bachelor of Laws, twenty post-graduate and special students will receive the degree of Master of Law. Commencement exercises will be held in the Majestic Theatre, Brooklyn, the evening of June 8.

Harlem Lovelorn Mourn as Hindu Promises Court Not to Be "Doctor"

Ranji Singh, in Tombs Because of Mystic 'Buckeye,' Cooks His Rice and Loses Weight.

Scores of prospective clients among the lovemans of New York, anxious for even one drop of the love potion Ranji Singh brought a few months ago from the Punjab, received a blow to-day when three Justices of the Court of Special Sessions decided that a serious charge against the brown-skinned young Hindu would be placed on his "son out condition."

The charge against Singh was violating the medical law by practicing without a license.

"And the condition is," said Justice Kernochan, "that you cease immediately to set yourself up as a physician and stop imposing upon the superstitious."

The court was easy on Ranji Singh, twenty-seven, of No. 113 West 112th Street, because of his obviously weakened physical condition. Arrested five days ago and sent to the Tombs to await trial, the "doctor" had lived solely on rice which he cooked for himself over a gas stove.

DRY AGENTS BRAVE INDIGESTION AND LAND SEVEN IN JAIL

One Dinner After Another Result in Arrests at Rockaway.

A dinner-eating squad of Prohibition agents with a capacity of three dinners and sundry sandwiches per evening devoted their heroic stomachs to The Cause last night, and if they are suffering to-day they may find consolation in the thought that certain persons are in jail.

William J. Stafford and Peter J. Reager were the males of the party. They had with them two peaches known in Prohibition circles as "The Princess" and "The Countess," dark, Spanish-looking ladies with languid eyes and perfect figures that seem to remain perfect in spite of all the reckless feeding they dutifully undertake.

First, they went to the Casino on the boardwalk at Rockaway. Dinner was served. Dinner was eaten. Drinks were served and drinks were drunk. (It is for the court to decide what the drinks were). And Herman Frankel was arrested on a charge of selling.

Then the party went to dinner—this time at the Milo Inn, 69th Street and the Boulevard. Dinner No. 2 was followed by more drinks of a character not yet adjudicated. David Jacobson, Albert Smith and Jack Tierney were punched and the party rolled away in the limousine.

They went to dinner. This time it was at Philus Jolly's restaurant on the boardwalk. Dinner No. 3 followed its predecessors, vanishing behind the ornate facades of the gentlemen and the nothing-to-deceive-you decoletes of the ladies. Dan Smith was arrested for supplying whatever it was that the bottle contained.

It might have been considered this was a night's work, but on the way back to Manhattan somebody suggested "a little to eat." So they stopped at the Hoffman Inn on the Merrick Road, consumed some sandwiches, took another chance on the limousine, and rolled John Hoffman and Henry East to the bar of victims who must tell the Judge about it.

The agents, the Countess and the Princess are reported to be feeling as well as could be expected to-day and ready for another night of it if duty calls.

SUIT OF HUSBAND FOR $75,000 WILL GO TO JURY TO-DAY

"Unconscious" at News of Wife's Marriage While He Was in France.

The suit brought by William Sherman Gil, former newspaper man and broker, to recover $75,000 worth of securities which he claims belong to him and are held by his former wife, Mrs. Evelyn Emily Bennett, will go to the jury late this afternoon. The trial has been before Supreme Court Justice Burr an ex parte jury for a week.

Gill testified that while he was in Paris during the Peace Conference as the representative of a New York newspaper his wife obtained a secret divorce from him in Chattanooga, Tenn. Gill said the first he learned of his wife's divorce was when he returned from Europe and arrived at his apartment, No. 740 West End Avenue. He testified he was "unconscious" for several hours after he heard the news.

Gill claims that he entrusted the securities to his wife when he went to Europe. The defendant says the securities are her own.

Counsel for Mrs. Gill introduced a receipt which, it is alleged, was signed by both Mr. and Mrs. Gill on the night of his return. Gill said he did not remember signing it. The receipt read: "In receipt of $650, I consider all personal debts cancelled between myself and Mrs. Raymond Bennett."

MISS M'CORMICK HERE; HER GUEST TO SAIL

Friends Scout Report Ozer's
Finances Plans European Trip.

Miss Mathilde McCormick, whose marriage to Max Ozer, Zurich riding master, is scheduled for this summer, arrived at the Hotel Plaza yesterday and at once became inaccessible to newspapermen.

Accompanying her from Chicago was Miss Julia Mangold, at one time bookkeeper to Ozer, who plans to sail tomorrow for Switzerland on the Brenzgraw.

Reports that Miss McCormick might be aboard the Condor to-morrow and that the wedding to Ozer might take place sooner than was expected were not supported by friends, who pointed out that in advices received in Chicago as late as Friday Ozer said he expected to come here early next month. It was said Miss McCormick's only mission here was to say good-bye to Miss Mangold, who has been her guest for several months.

PARIS, May 28.—Charles R. Ozer of Chicago left Paris yesterday for the Hague. From The Hague he will go to London, where he will sail for New York on the Cunard liner Aquitania for New York.

ASK FOR INCREASE IN LAST 80 CENT GAS SECTIONS IN CITY

Company Petitions Commission for $1.25 Rate in Riverdale and Spuyten Duyvil.

A hearing on an application for higher gas rates in the Riverdale and Spuyten Duyvil sections was started to-day before E. Meredith Langstaff, associate counsel for the Public Service Commission.

Thid sections named are the only ones in the city still enjoying the 80-cent rate and the present application of the Westchester Lighting Company is for an increase to $1.25.

F. H. Nickerson of the Consolidated Gas Company, which owns all the stock of the Westchester Company, said the Westchester Company pays 86½ cents for gas, buying it from the Northern Union Gas Company, which in turn buys it from the Manhattan and Astoria plants of the Consolidated.

Mr. Nickerson said the expenses in addition to the purchase price bring the cost to the Westchester Company up to $1.25. He said the price to the consumer in order to make an 8 per cent. return and cover the 12½ per cent. Federal income tax, ought to be $1.58½ or $1.60.

When Assistant Corporation Counsel William S. Jackson started to cross-examine Mr. Nickerson, counsel for the company objected and asked that the city be excluded from the hearing. The objection was overruled.

Counsel for the company said that if the hearing was to be prolonged by cross examinations and other delays the company might introduce a schedule of $1.60 instead of $1.25. It was said the application had been for $1.25 in order to standardize the price.

$5,000 AND PENSION FOR POLICE WIDOW

Mrs. Hay and Children Provided For by City and Relief Fund.

A report that Mrs. Douglas W. Hay, widow of Policeman Hay, killed by Michael Fradano, a peddler, on May 18, will not get a city pension because her husband was in the department less than ten years, was denied to-day at Police Headquarters.

Mrs. Hay will not receive half the patrolman's salary, as she might have had he been ten years in the service, but she will receive a pension of $50 a month from the city for the rest of her life. At the same time $5,000 will be provided for the widow and her two children out of the Honor Roll Relief Fund. She will collect the interest on this sum until the children are of age and the principal will then be divided between the children.

On the day the patrolman was killed, it was said at Police Headquarters, a representative of the Police Relief Fund handed the widow $500 for funeral and other expenses.

"Mrs. Hay has and will receive every benefit the Police Department can extend," Commissioner Richard E. Enright said to-day.

POLICE HONOR MEN TO INSTALL OFFICERS

The Honor Legion of the Police Department, composed of about 500 holders of medals for bravery and valor will install officers at the club room of the Elks in West 43d Street on Wednesday evening.

Special Deputy Police Commissioner Rodman Wananaker will be admitted to honorary membership in the Legion. A motion picture called "The Midnight Call," depicting the life of New York policemen will have its initial showing. The police Glee Club will furnish a vocal programme and there will be a vaudeville performance by headliners, and dancing.

PHILATELISTS TO MEET HERE

Prominent stamp collectors from all parts of the United States are expected to attend the annual convention of the United Stamp Societies to be held to-morrow at the headquarters of the New York Philatelic Society, Inc., No. 29 East 125th Street, according to an announcement made to-day by the local society. The afternoon will be devoted to a stamp auction.

Jumps Off Train, Saves Woman In River, Hops Back to His Job

Hero Brakeman on N. Y. Central Freight "Hadn't Time" to Give Name.

The name of a modest but efficient hero was unknown to-day alike to the police and his employer, the New York Central Railroad. But he is a brakeman, and he has plenty of courage.

Mrs. Mary Radl, sixty-nine, of No. 257 East 26th Street, wandered from home last night and about 9 o'clock fell from the pier at the foot of 79th Street, North River. A long freight train was crawling slowly northward when a cry arose from a few coupling couples who saw the elderly woman splash into the river.

The locomotive was about even with the dock edge when the cry was raised and the brakeman on the front car called to the engine driver.

MAY PAGE GOLFERS ON WINGED FOOT LINKS BY RADIO

Plans Include an Aerial and Receiving Station at Each Tee.

In order to meet the difficulty of establishing communication with golfers on the links and in keeping with the advances of modern science, the Winged Foot Golf Club is considering installing a radio system on the new thirty-six-hole layout being built by the New York Athletic Club at Mamaroneck.

It is planned to have a radio sending system at the clubhouse and aerials and receiving stations on each tee so that it will be possible to page golfers on any part of the course.

Girl Runaways Beg Rides to N. Y. From Up-State

Slept in Woods One Night—
Autoist on Ferry Turns Them
Over to Police.

Two runaway girls from Binghamton, N. Y., were found last night on a West 42d Street ferryboat and taken to Police Headquarters, Westchester, where they will be held until their parents arrive. They are Golda Yelverton, fourteen, No. 35 Wilbur Street, and Anna Lamb, fifteen, No. 47½ Pine Street.

The request of the girls for a ride on a car on the boat brought about their arrest. The owner notified a policeman, who on questioning the two learned their story. The girls said they left home Friday night and walked to Danville, Pa., four miles. There they said they met an automobile party that took them to Great Bend, Pa., where they spent the night with friends of the owner of the car.

Saturday morning the girls said they met a friendly truck driver, who took them to Liberty, N. Y. They slept in the woods all night and yesterday morning got a ride to Manhattan.

After remaining in Bryant Park all the afternoon, the girls said they walked to the ferry, where they begged money to pay their way across the river. They did not leave the boat, but asked autoists for a ride. They refused to say why they had run away.

United States Senator William M. Calder denied in a formal statement in Brooklyn to-day that he was opposed to the Dyer Anti-Lynching Bill. He declared that he was verbally attacked last night at Holy Trinity Baptist Church, before a colored congregation, for his alleged opposition to the bill. The church is at De Kalb and Franklin Avenues, Brooklyn.
